

Have you ever wondered how sane people, weirdos and crazy people would handle the same job? Well wonder no more, because I will be telling you! Yes, there is a theme in much of my writings, but don't worry, for something a little different I will soon be writing in depth about my excellent game you can play on gym hiking machines. There's nothing crazy about that, and you'll get diagrams, too. I will also be blogging about a doctor's checkup on Thursday, and as there are local road closures, I may get lost. I'm genuinely frightened. So if I don't post my daily joke and shape on that day, it could be because I'm busy writing, or it could be because I'm travelling up and down the country. Dammit! That's a theme as well! Hopefully I won't get lost AND go crazy. Anyway, let's go!

Healthy general

A healthy general cares about his fellow soldiers and gives them good advice. He CAN feel fear, but he pushes it deep down inside and goes into battle heroically. Wow. A great guy.

Weirdo general

A weirdo general on the other hand would say something like 'Let's all dress up as clowns. Trust me. Then when the enemy are dumbfounded by shock, we attack. A dick move, but not illegal.' Maybe he does have a point, but it trivialises war and it's inappropriate.

Crazy general

A crazy general however, would dress up a clown, do impressive tricks and that's it. No fear, he doesn't care. A truly frightening person, but not for his enemy, but his 'allies'.

Healthy doctor

Healthy doctors know what they're talking about. They don't Google conditions in front of you, they are frank with you but don't go out of their way to make you feel scared. They're caring, hard working and punctual.

Weirdo doctor

Weirdo doctors mostly know what they're talking about, but if you describe rarer symptoms and ask what they are, you will likely get the response '(expletive) knows' along with casual shrugging of shoulders. They also talk about other patient's more amusing conditions and show you pictures.

Crazy doctor

Crazy doctors are fearful of being diagnosed themselves (of mental disorders) so they always keep their workmates busy with crosswords, sudokus, etc. Once they're finished, how about an exciting novel? No one must think for themselves and observe crazy doctors drawing blood from their own eyeballs, or it's all over.

Healthy vet

Healthy vets love animals, they don't operate on them just to see blood, they genuinely want them to get better. They don't think that because they can control whether pets can live or die that makes them God, they understand that they simply have medical knowledge. Friendly people.

Weirdo vet

THESE people only became vets because they failed their human surgery exams. How did they fail? Well the red ink that was used to represent blood was used to write letters, and whilst the letters weren't threatening, the examiners got the wrong idea. Yep, the examinee had no chance of working again. However, he cleaned up his act, used an alias and applied for work a few miles away. Sorted.

Crazy vet

If you thought that was bad, crazy vets wear cats on their heads and joyride on horses as they throw snakes at people. Sounds a bit unbelievable, but I had to up the intensity somehow.

Healthy builder

These guys lay bricks and stuff like that with a hard work ethic and dignity.

Weirdo builder

However, these guys don't really do much at all other than sunbathe higher than normal, which excites them. When confronted, all they say is 'what you gonna do?' :(

Crazy builder

Sadly, these people use their height advantage and throw bricks down on people with full force. The only thing that matters to crazy builders is their kill count, which is very very high.

Healthy shopkeeper

These people serve customers with a smile, they fully understand what they're supposed to be selling and if people decide not to purchase anything, the workers don't get mad.

Weirdo shopkeeper

You get smiles with weirdo shopkeepers, but if customers are perceived as being too slow to pick up goods, such smiles are a bit weird looking. It's hard to pinpoint why, but they just don't look right and seem scary. That's intentional.

Crazy shopkeeper

These people are doomsday preppers and have an extreme fear of others taking essential items away from them. If these people are gun shop owners, I wouldn't get involved.

Healthy DJ

Expect normal rhymes from these musicians, such as 'love my rhythms, you need to be with 'em'. Classic stuff. Catchy.

Weirdo DJ

These musicians have rhymes that don't make quite so much sense. e.g. 'love my rhythms, chunithm, algorithm'. Rubbish.

Crazy DJ

These people don't say a thing, they just stare at their audience blankly. They don't even have turntables, all they have is a bazooka. Run.

Healthy blogger

These people write about all the great stuff that happens to them and all the fascinating things they do. They don't even have a single personality disorder, their level of intelligence is at least normal in all areas, and they are likeable. :O

Weirdo blogger

These people are more depressed and anxious and admit things aren't really going to well for them. At very least, they have hope for the future. They may write about getting lost on their way to the shops because they think it's amusing. Really it points to a mental deficiency.

Crazy blogger

These people don't care AT ALL. They have no problems writing anything. Other people often hint that crazy bloggers should be more normal. Subtle notes are left around houses by concerned relatives, and they may get visits from doctors.

Healthy accountant

These people have a love of maths and logic. Even though the smarter ones can get away with it, they choose not to steal. Professional stuff.

Weirdo accountant

These people CAN do maths, but no more than simple additions and multiplications. As long as their clients are earning less than a penny a year? Should be fine. Maybe.

Crazy accountant

These people cannot STAND using the left side of their brain. It's torture. They make everything up, break several laws doing so, and they drive on the wrong side of the road.

Healthy politician

These men and women are strong leaders who want to make the world a better place. And they do!

Weirdo politician

These individuals are more interested in making a name for themselves. What's the easiest way of doing so? Making a law saying they can only be called 'Penguin Foot, Marshmallow Nose' seems pretty efficient.

Crazy politician

If that wasn't extreme enough for you, these people genuinely believe they are marshmallows. Sad really. If they are invited to local bonfires, they fear for their lives and become aggressive. Stay away from them.

Ok! We've seen people at their best, we've seen them at their worst. If you've seen ALL of the worst examples listed, I feel genuinely bad for you. You must have a very warped view of people, now. Just know that you've been exceptionally unlucky. That's all! Bye!