

BEN: Hello listeners... I'm with James as always, and I'm with Dan, too. However, the latter is so angry he can't really do anything right now. We're all praying he'll be better soon...

JAMES: Get better soon, Dan.

BEN: Would you like to explain what you've done, to our listeners, James? Just in case they don't know.

JAMES: I stole Dan's car, crashed it and used DeepFake technology to make it look like he was driving. Then I got sent to jail, but actually because of an error I was made prison warden instead of prisoner, and I got away with everything. Then I let all the prisoners go, and then... well, he we are.

BEN: And why did you do let so many maniacs loose?

JAMES: There are reasons, they're just very complicated.

BEN: Go on...

JAMES: They're so complicated, not even I know for sure. I actually think I'm just as baffled as you, I really do. But I do know why I wasn't charged with any crime!

BEN: Why?

JAMES: Because of our great new Prime Minister, Sexy Moon Bazooka. As the mentally ill are saying, he's a man who gets the job done!

BEN: And what job is that?

JAMES: All jobs!

BEN: Name one.

JAMES: The job of my freedom?

BEN: How is freedom a job?

JAMES: You can pay something for anything technically speaking...

BEN: James, has ANYONE ever paid someone for being free?

JAMES: Sure.

BEN: Ok, whatever. But MOST people are getting increasingly angry with our new leader. Almost everyone is saying he's a complete fruitcake.

JAMES: Yes, very much so.

BEN: What do you think is going on in his head? In this rare case, I value your opinion.

JAMES: Yes, I believe I understand his thought processes so much, I took a Myers Briggs test on his behalf and I THINK I know what his type is...

BEN: Go on...

JAMES: ENTJ.

BEN: Another ENTJ?

JAMES: Not a great example of one, but that's what the test said.

BEN: I'm sure the Dominant Egg will HATE being compared with an incompetent madman.

JAMES: Some people really like him, though...

BEN: What? You and prisoners?

JAMES: Yes. And Speed freaks.

BEN: James, it's very frightening when drivers are forced to travel at speeds over 100 miles an hour by others 'expressing their opinion'. The thought of crashing combined with the threat of going to prison? It's just awful.

JAMES: Well, prisoners get released easily anyway, so it doesn't really matter.

BEN: The world is in absolute chaos now!! No one knows what's right and wrong, no one knows how to act, there is almost certainly a huge crime spree going on RIGHT NOW, and you're partly responsible!!

JAMES: Fascist.

BEN: What???

JAMES: What, are you one of those people who think the speed limit should be set by those who know what they're talking about?

BEN: YES!!

JAMES: I'm sorry, I worded that very badly. What I meant was...

BEN: Oh God what are you going to say this time?

JAMES: Let me finish! What I meant was, maybe, JUST MAYBE, small children have the right to decide how fast people should travel, too?

BEN: No, no, no, no, NO, NO, NO!!!!

JAMES: Why?

BEN: THEIR (expletive) BRAINS HAVEN'T DEVELOPED!!!!

JAMES: Wow.

BEN: I'm... I'm... sorry...

JAMES: You know what I think should happen to you?

BEN: James, if you get me sent to prison, I WILL kill you.

JAMES: I can get you sent to prison for what was once a dumb reason, you can get me sent to prison for another so called 'moronic' reason. That is the beauty of modern life.

(The phone rings)

BEN: Hello?

CALLER: Hello, Benjamin. Prime Minister Sexy Moon Bazooka, here. You have problems with my leadership style?

BEN: Hello, Sir. I just find it... mad. That's all.

CALLER: Mad? Because of me, us Britons are living in the most democratic society the world has ever known. Sure, there is some confusion when it comes to what's legal and what isn't, but now we are all one!

BEN: Can you give me an example of what is against the law, please? Other than not driving fast enough, I mean.

CALLER: There are actually just as many crimes as ever, if not more so. However, it's extremely easy to be released from prison.

BEN: And can you name a crime that will get you a definite, lengthy prison sentence?

CALLER: No.

BEN: No?

CALLER: No, that sounded wrong. Yes. Yes, of course.

BEN: Go on...

CALLER: Just the bad crimes.

BEN: James crashed Dan's car and tried to blame it on him...

CALLER: Was he driving too slow?

BEN: Too fast if anything...

CALLER: Not so bad.

BEN: And why is that?

CALLER: He wouldn't have caused any traffic jams.

BEN: Dan is with me and James right now, but he's so angry he can't speak. Surely James's crimes can be called bad in that respect?

CALLER: And just to be clear, he wasn't driving too slow at any point?

BEN: You're a real loon aren't you? If anything you're worse than James. At least he hasn't ruined the whole country! Spoilt it maybe, but nothing like you.

CALLER: You have to remember you have the same amount of power James has, or indeed anyone...

BEN: Ohhhhh yeah.

JAMES: Oh no.

BEN: Prime Minister Sexy Moon Bazooka, I think James should go to jail because he's really, really annoying.

CALLER: I'm considering it, right now.

JAMES: Oh come on. If you send me to jail, I'll send you to jail, Prime Minister!

CALLER: Wow. This is one complex decision.

BEN: Don't worry Moon Bazooka, I think only James should go to jail.

JAMES: I think only Ben should go to jail. And Dan, too.

BEN: Can't you see how needlessly confusing this is???

CALLER: Confusing, yes, but liberating.

BEN: I can't stand this!

JAMES: I find it intellectually stimulating...

BEN: Bazooka, can you at least make James shut up?

CALLER: It depends what everyone else thinks...

BEN: But James singlehandedly released hundreds of dangerous criminals! Where's the democracy there??

CALLER: The criminals all thought it was a great idea.

BEN: Surely not the rest of the population?

CALLER: Oh yeah.

BEN: 'Oh yeah'???

CALLER: That's a good point. I have a lot of questions to ask a lot of people. Bye.

BEN: Well, he's clearly a lunatic isn't he, James?

JAMES: I guess it is a bit weird the way a Prime Minister phoned a Lego podcast without warning...

BEN: Argh! We've forgotten to talk about Lego again!

JAMES: Lego. There you go.

BEN: Our producer really is a very forgiving person, isn't he?

JAMES: And on that positive if mute note from Dan.... bye!