

James: Well, well, well. It's James and the Dominant Egg here and this time I'M ranking random words!

DE: Wow.

James: Don't take that tone with me, you ranked the words last time and you loved it.

DE: Well you're clearly not going to let this go, so fine. I loved ranking the words. Happy?

James: Yes, it made you feel like a king amongst eggs.

DE: No it didn't.

James: Yes it did. Right in last place is...

12th Explicit

James: Why would I rank this word high? What are you saying?

DE: Are you going to bring up Christmas in the rankings, like last time?

James: An explicit Christmas?

DE: What's that?

James: I don't know. Maybe I don't want to know.

DE: Next word then?

James: Yip.

11th Revolution

James: Dan's grudge isn't going away. I worry it could go further.

DE: I can see why you'd rank such a word so low...

James: But of course it's not as bad as an X-rated Christmas.

DE: Yes, I agree. No one wants to see a tainted Home Alone.

James: Right. Next is...

10th Amputate

James: Luckily amputation doesn't really affect you so much. How can you amputate an egg?

DE: That's why you never hear of any egg wars. An egg gets shot? That's it for him, there is no treatment. Egg wars are simply too dangerous.

James: Well, well, well. I never knew that.

DE: Eggs have learned to fight their battles with words alone. For example, 'stupid James, you have no friends'.

James: That was really cutting.

DE: There is a saying in the egg community...

James: Yes?

DE: It goes 'you may shoot an egg, but never get into an argument with one.'

James: Well... You're a quick witted egg.

DE: Thank you.

James: And how can we make the word 'amputate' festive?

DE: I'd say any amputation would completely ruin the holidays...

James: Oh I know. Unless your relative who works in the wheelchair factory gives you a wheelchair as a present. He'd be like 'Now, I know this isn't too appropriate, BUT you may need it some time in the future.' Then you could explain you may get frostbite somehow, sometime in the future, and all of a sudden it's the perfect gift.

DE: And of course it removes the need for eggs to hover.

James: How DO you hover, by the way?

DE: Well I don't know. How do you walk?

James: With my legs...

DE: Well... I hover with my egg.

James: Can you teach me?

DE: I thought you could levitate...

James: Levitate yes, but not forwards.

DE: Oh. But at least you can... well, say there's... no wait a sec...

James: You have all the time in the world.

DE: Thanks. Say there's maybe a snail crawling towards you...

James: Yes?

DE: You can levitate and let it go about its journey!

James: Yeah! Thanks for that, Charlie. Very much appreciated. Now I don't want to levitate forward anymore. Right, next is...

9th Receipt

DE: Who cares about receipts?

James: Exactly my thinking.

DE: Receipts can even be depressing over the Christmas period. As in 'did I really spend all that money?'

James: But rather have a receipt than an amputation?

DE: If you have a haircut, is that considered an amputation?

James: I don't know. In that case, I'd rather have a hair amputation than a huge receipt.

DE: See, us eggs have a way with words.

James: Exactly. I'm not sure how comparing haircuts to amputations can win BATTLES, but you are clearly smart for an egg.

DE: Thanks.

James: Next is...

8th System

James: Systems are alright...

DE: Is there a Christmas system?

James: Supplying shops with toys and stuff like that...

DE: Well. Fancy that.

James: Exactly, let's move on.

7th Governor

James: I have issues with power, making me jealous. However, governors do do things I don't want to such as work.

DE: All you do is insult people live on air?

James: Yes, the description of an unhealthy enneagram five is eerily similar to my personality, isn't it?

DE: On the plus side, you're not an unhealthy enneagram 8.

James: Right, otherwise I'd go around killing people.

DE: Not festive.

James: Enneagram 4s are pretty nice though.

DE: As are 9s.

James: You just want to hug one and say 'cheer up'.

DE: Which is festive!

6th Closed

James: Why would anyone on Earth like a closed shop? However, closed books? Pretty good.

DE: You're not a big reader?

James: They're just not efficient and in this fast paced world, efficiency is important. A picture paints a thousand words, so God knows how many words a whole film paints.

DE: I've never heard that argument before.

James: I'll take it further, a book is a snail, a film is a supersonic jet.

DE: You're making books sound like thoughtless presents...

James: What would you rather have, a snail or a supersonic jet?

DE: And why would I want a supersonic jet?

James: I get it, you're an egg and you don't fight in wars, but you can still fly for fun.

DE: I could keep a snail as a pet... And you don't do anything apart from insult people on a podcast so what's your problem with a fast paced world?

James: I need to think up lots of original insults.

DE: You're a very sad person, aren't you?

James: No... Anyway, next is...

5th Economics

James: What can I say? I don't understand the economy. Though again, it's very important.

DE: And how does the economy relate to Christmas?

James: Buying all the presents!

DE: And we all know without presents at Christmas, all your life has to offer is putdowns.

James: What can I say, I'm an unhealthy five.

DE: Do you know what my type is?

James: 7w8?

DE: Oh you do know.

James: Actually I'd say you were unhealthy. Not seriously though.

DE: If partying makes me unhealthy, call me unhealthy.

James: Oh come on. We ALL know how extreme your parties are. You need help.

DE: Next word.

James: This is MY event. I say next word! (Next word).

4th Lick

James: Oh if only you could lick things, right Charlie?

DE: Idiot.

James: Mmm. Ice cream!

DE: There is more to life than putting things into your mouth and eating. I know that's hard for you to understand.

James: You REALLY are a cutting egg aren't you. That's what you should be called.

DE: But I did dominate you just now...

James: :(

3rd Transition

James: I started out as a nobody, then all of a sudden I transition into a famous (yes, yes, famous in the wrong way) podcaster. Not bad. Much like you, right?

DE: I hope I don't 'transition' like you...

James: And why is that?

DE: I worry that would make me a worse egg. You clearly think it's funny being an unhealthy 5. And what are your long term goals exactly?

James: Unhealthy fives act like unhealthy 7s. My goal is to act like ALL types. But in an unhealthy way.

DE: Why??

James: Just to stick in people's minds...

DE: You can't do that in a positive way?

James: Nope. Not at all.

DE: Oh. Well... I'm sorry.

James: Thank you.

2nd Write

James: Writing is easy! You know why that is? No friends to write Christmas cards to!

DE: Wow. You're a lucky man.

James: Yeah, it's basically just you, my mentally diseased girlfriend and Ben. Dan doesn't want to know me.

DE: That's a shame.

James: Yes, but I only have to spend about £3 on cards. The rest of my money goes on things I like!

DE: :O

James: Yes, next word!

1st High

James: I'm high on life this festive period, not high on drugs. Not like you, right?

DE: I'm in treatment.

James: As I only spend about £3 on cards and presents (the cards being the presents), I thought maybe I could get you something extra special.

DE: What?

James: A film!

DE: A film?

James: Yes! They're like books but SO much better!

DE: But books make you use your imagination more...

James: You say that, but actually my mind wanders in films too...

DE: You're saying because you can't pay attention to films, you use your imagination more and that's a good thing?

James: Yes!

DE: Sounds like ADHD to me.

James: Adhood?

DE: No...

James: There are no Os?

DE: Eh?

James: Adhd?

DE: I could tell you what I mean, but when I say it was a mental disorder, you'd take it as a compliment and as a way of feeling special. So I'm not going to.

James: Please.

DE: Well, would you look at that, the list is over. I guess bye?

James: Yes, merry Christmas, Charlie!

DE: Bye.