

'Simon, anyone can hear stories on the news and stuff like that, and THEN give meaning to the dates such events happened with your so called 'special number system'. We need proof it really works. What you need to do is use your method the other way round. You need to have dates in front of you and predict if the events are good or bad BEFORE you hear what happened. Or something like that.' That's a fair point. I'm not scared at all. So, let's give this a try! :S

3rd Jan, 1987 (or rather 311987). What does that number mean? Well, if you read my prior two articles and have mastered the theory, you will know it means 'freedom from being no. 1 of no.1, (i.e. the best of the best), no prosperous luck'. Of course it does. Let's Google the most notable news of that day and see what happens... 'Aretha Franklin is the first female artist to be inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame'. Does my method work? Yes. BECAUSE she wasn't number one was she? She wasn't the best artist in the hall of fame, rather she was just another member. She has no prosperous luck? In other words, she wasn't super lucky? Well, fame doesn't make you happy, so therefore she wasn't lucky. See? It does work.

Don't believe me? Let's do another date... 16th March 1955. (1631955) Number one of evil, freedom from being the best, no five star five stars. (To make things simpler, it just means 'Number one of evil, freedom from being the best. Of course, the last three numbers can be ignored, as they basically have the same meaning as the earlier digits). So, what happened? 'Josephine Kroesen is appointed as 1st Dutch female judge.' As we all know, the thought of a female judge is evil. They're certainly never the best. Next! :O

20th October, 2017 (20102017) Anger at nothing, number one of nothing, anger at nothing, number one in luck... "Coco" Pixar animated film, the first nine-figure budget film with all-Latino cast premiers at Morelia film festival'. Well there's clearly no reason to be angry at the film as that was pointed out twice. The film certainly doesn't make ME angry, why would it? Of course the film isn't the no.1 of anything, otherwise everyone in the world would know about it for at least one reason. I haven't even heard of it. (I just know it doesn't make me angry). However, the film was very lucky in that it premiered at the Morelia film festival, didn't it? Wow. Was it the luckiest thing in the world ever? In my honest opinion, yes. 'But how can something be no. 1 at nothing and simultaneously the number one of luck?' That's a tough one. MAYBE it's because luck isn't a real thing and therefore it's a meaningless number. Rather people get success through hard work. THAT'S deep. You know when I said the film was lucky? I take that back. There's no shame in it. 'So your number system is flawed?' Of course not! It's just in this case, luck isn't real. Luck is real at other times, for example when I fell off my bike and didn't damage my brain. :)

Ok, I think you get the point now. Maybe I should talk about something else. I was thinking of doing phone numbers, then I realised that most people don't like it when such numbers are published. Unless they're mental of course, but interestingly my number system doesn't mention such people. Angry and evil people, but no nutters. I could do barcodes, but how am I supposed to buy an item without knowing what it is? If I do know what it is, that's going to give me a bias that I'm trying to avoid. Tough times. I know, I'll do one more date: Tomorrow. That is 27th January, 2022. (Or 2712022) (Or anger at luck, number one of anger, no anger anger). And we all know that means 'Anger at luck (der), number one of anger (self-explanatory), and no anger. That sounds like a messed up day, but let's wait and see...

In the meantime, here's a number of views of a random Youtube video. I know roughly what it is about, but not exactly. I saw the name of the video out of the corner of my eye, but again, I'm not 100% sure, so I can still kind of test my theory. Ok, it's been watched 725,000 times. That means lucky anger, five star nothing nothing nothing. Which I believe is the same as lucky anger five star nothing. Simplifying things further (just like in algebra!), THAT means it's good to be angry in the video, but it's not perfect in any way. I think the video is about drumming, but let's see for sure... Ok, it's a drum and bass video, performed live. Is it taking advantage of being angry? Yes. It does sound angry, and the sound works. Told you. Is it perfect? It IS good, but not flawless. I'd love to see the look on my system's sceptics now!

If you think I'm running out of ideas with this 3rd version, I guess I kind of am. I really need to do some music reviewing for the-independent-voice.org to recharge my batteries. There really is only so much comedy I can take. Ok this monologue isn't comedy, it's more intellectual, so let's say I need a break from my site in general. I have got some editing to do for the music site right now, which is good, though. Anyway, let's see what tomorrow brings! I can only pray I won't be TOO angry. Sounds a bit rubbish.

A day passes! Am I angry at luck? You know what? I am. I don't think I've been lucky a single time today. I don't think I've been unlucky, but thinks are still pretty meh. Am I the most angry person in the world, right now as I should be in theory? No. BUT I'm also not completely without anger as I should be in theory. What do you get when you're the most angry possible and simultaneously not angry? You get a middle ground and that's what I am. The theory is flawless.

Again, even though painfully difficult to write, this was basically filler material, and you could say it was exactly the same as the last two ones, in that I manipulated the truth again, but it's better than nothing. Not to worry, I have plans for a more original monologue. In it, I will predict what the future will be like in 10 years! The twist is, I genuinely have no idea whatsoever. Yes, a bit of a recurring theme, but what would you rather? That I predict what happened in the past? What would be the point of that? Oh, I did do that. Well whatever, bye!!