

Illegal Eggivities!

News just in, the world famous Dominant Egg is being held at special jail for eggs in America, after being stopped by police for driving erratically and not wearing a seatbelt. A breath test revealed that he was five times over the legal alcohol limit and a number of bazookas were found in the van he was driving. When questioned, the egg became aggressive and charged at the three officers. However, after a few minutes of struggling, the egg was overpowered and placed inside an empty can of Pringles with a lid on top that was provided by an old lady. Thank God a shop selling snacks was nearby, but no one was hungry enough for THAT many crisps. But rather eat them to make space in the Pringles tube than throw them away. In the cop car, the egg repeatedly tried to bribe the police with the weapons. When asked why he didn't try bribing with money, the egg explained he spent it all on fancy egg cups, luxurious shampoos that make him shiny, and pyramid schemes that seemed to make sense at the time. He also explained how he planned on firing a bazooka at a chef known for making cakes out of eggs. The egg accused the cook of being sick and a scumbag.

The egg was assessed as being mentally unstable and may be suffering from alcohol addiction, borderline personality disorder, and depression. The egg agreed that if all the money made from his upcoming standup tour called 'Laughing and Yoking' goes to the chef and the traumatised officers, the egg will be spared a lengthy jail sentence. However, if the chef doesn't provide a vegan main course menu ASAP, the egg will later be engaging in constant, non-violent protest and the cook will be mocked on stage. Dominant also demands that all cakes be made with bananas and margarine from now on. If any more eggs get cooked, the Dominant Egg will go even further. But legally. He also demands to know what has happened to his cousin called The Tasty Egg and why he has stopped contacting him.

Similarly, The Filling Egg, The Nutritious Egg, and The Delicious Egg have all mysteriously disappeared and The Dominant Egg has said 'he will never stop searching for them'. Interestingly, his severely diseased grandfather The Manky Egg has been easy to get hold of, even in this difficult time. The Dominant Egg is currently receiving mental health treatment, where he engages in art therapy. The other prisoner/patients are encouraged to paint on him, which he enjoys. In his words it's 'Very rock and roll. Like being in an egg version of band Kiss.' He also likes to sing songs about feelings of alienation and being misunderstood. However, he often simply sits in his egg cup, in his cell alone and in silence. His diary is a fairly dull read, but his poetry about nature and sadness has been described as 'not bad'.

The egg still isn't fully reformed however, as he has lashed out at a prison chef who was preparing ice cream. It had an egg in it. The egg has apologised, but the apology was described as 'bitter' and 'clearly fake'. He has also has an obsession with chicken farms and demands to know what happens in them. His pen pal 'The Disillusioned Chicken' has been ordered not to go into too many details as it would be damaging to the egg's mental health. On the plus side, the egg is starting to learn that chefs aren't bad people, really the problem is with him. Thus, a world wide comedy tour could begin in just a few days. Will it be good, or will it just be an egg ranting? Only time will tell, but personally I find the thought of an egg simply talking about life to be kind of interesting. Article over, byeeee.