

Christmas And Various Hallucinations

Simon: Simon! We've got to know each other so much, yet I don't even know the story behind your name! Why do you call yourself 'Simon John Wiedemann' when your initials are 'SJW'?

Simon: Yes, I was born with the name 'Social Justice Warrior', but when I was old enough, I got it changed to avoid negative attention.

Simon: I think Social Justice Warrior is pretty cool...

Simon: I don't.

Simon: So your parent's surname is 'Warrior'...

Simon: Yep, that's a real last name, I checked online.

Simon: Huh?

Simon: I mean yes. That's my parent's surname.

Simon: Are they warriors or are you related to any?

Simon: I'd like to think so.

Simon: But are you?

Simon: I think everyone has people in their family who has fought in wars...

Simon: Really everyone's last name should be Warrior.

Simon: Exactly. A but confusing though.

Simon: And it might look pretentious to people in other countries/cultures.

Simon: Do you think Social and Justice should be mainstream forenames?

Simon: Sure. I'd like to be called at least one of the two if it was normal.

Simon: Me too.

Simon: Why did you change your last name to Wiedemann in particular?

Simon: Because it sounds like 'We da man'.

Simon: But that doesn't make sense.

Simon: It almost does.

Simon: Why not call yourself 'Imdamann'?

Simon: If only you were around all those years ago...

Simon: Your psychiatrist dismissed me as a symptom of mental illness though...

Simon: Yeah, well. He doesn't know what he's missing out on.

Simon: Thanks, man.

Simon: No problem.

Simon: Are you looking forward to Christmas?

Simon: I sure am.

Simon: What have you got planned?

Simon: It's not for certain yet, but I'm hoping to get some music equipment so I can get composing again.

Simon: Why haven't you been writing recently?

Simon: It's not very interesting...

Simon: Go on...

Simon: Logic and Sibelius aren't working on my computer any more.

Simon: Oh. That wasn't interesting.

Simon: Right. Anyway, I'm hoping to write some funny songs and post them on my site.

Simon: Ah, you're into witty intelligent lyrics, then?

Simon: Nope, I'm just going sample me going 'wooo!!' and repeat the 'word' over and over in different pitches and speeds.

Simon: I have to be honest, I expected better from you.

Simon: Yeah, well.

Simon: It's not going to be you on your own is it?

Simon: Could be.

Simon: Oh God.

Simon: Well, we'll see what happens. I wanted to sample words and phrases from various sitcoms, but I'm not sure I'll be allowed to.

Simon: Copyright issues?

Simon: Exactly. 'I have been given an erroneous dish' from Fawlty Towers could work over a techno backing.

Simon: Never mind. Anyway, is there anything else on your mind, before I go?

Simon: Yes, one more thing. Since going to my brother's wedding and eating a lifetime's worth of cake in a day, I find it hard to resist sugar again.

Simon: Oh no.

Simon: Yes. In a shop, I saw a haselnuss schnitte and I had to eat it.

Simon: What's that?

Simon: I don't know, but it was amazing. I told myself it was a one off though.

Simon: Good luck.

Simon: Cheers.

Simon: Bye then?

Simon: Yep, byeeee.