

James: Hello and welcome to a special December party edition of Radio James, featuring Charlie and Wendy Baldwin, evil fish Le Poisson Militaire, upcoming death metal band Eternal Stab, Ben and last AND least... Dan!

Dan: Getting lots of Christmas wishes, James?

James: No, some of the comments have been very cruel.

Dan: From trolls, you mean?

James: No, friends.

Dan: What kind of comments?

James: Just hateful messages, one or two death threats, that kind of thing.

Dan: That was from me...

James: Yes, I know. How's the tour going, Dan?

Dan: The tour where I warn huge crowds about the dangers of interacting with people like you?

James: That's the one.

Dan: Pretty well, thank you.

James: Lots of money?

Dan: Mhm.

Ben: I actually have a similar tour... About people like you...

James: Oh God, not another one. Eternal Stab, would you like to play a song? There's a funny atmosphere in this room and I don't like it one bit.

Dan: It's coming from you!

(A case is heard opening)

James: For the listeners, the guitarist is opening his guitar case... Wow, a guitar in the shape of a knife...

Guitarist: Yes, you can literally stab someone with it...

James: Until the end of time?

Guitarist: That's what the guitar shop owner said...

James: Wow. Did he provide any evidence?

Guitarist: He just looked trustworthy...

James: You know what, I completely agree with you. I get strong vibes around people, too. Whenever I'm around Dan I always think to myself 'Wow... I'm clearly in the presence of greatness, here. This person really is something special...'

Dan: That genuinely made me feel violated.

James: Good. I should also point out the electric drum kit is already set up and the bassist has another instrument in the shape of a knife.

Bass: I too can stab someone eternally...

James: Ok fine, but not at this time of year, please. You are going to sing a Christmassy song, right?

Singer: Sure.

James: Oh good. Would you like to perform a song, right now?

Singer: No prob... Ok, here goes... (Death metal music plays with shouted vocals)
#We are Eternal Stab and we are desolisating the curse!

James: (Over the music) What's that mean?

Ben: I think that's a Judas Priest reference...

Singer: #We are horrifisating the horror and terrifisating the terror!

(The guitar and bass playing stops, but the drummer can be heard bashing the pads, relatively quietly).

James: Woah, woah, woah. That really was a load of (expletive), wasn't it? I had to pull the plug on all of you, I'm sorry.

(The quiet drumming continues some more).

Singer: I'm sorry?

James: What has that got to do with Christmas, exactly?

Singer: I can sing 'happifisating the happiness'?

James: Are you going to scream that?

Singer: I don't have to...

James: Would you like to sing 'happifisating the happiness', then?

(The singer does so).

James: Ok good, now how about 'Christmasising the Christmas?'

Singer: You really do think I'm a one trick pony, don't you?

James: Well come on, you don't think your lyrics are deep, do you?

Guitarist: If you keep disrespecting us, we're just going to leave.

James: Well, it's either I talk to you, Dan and his friend Ben, or I talk military tactics with a fish, so sorry for disrespecting you.

Charlie: What about me and Wendy?

James: Ah yes of course, when are you expecting your child egg Henry?

Wendy: Just a few days!

Le Poisson Militaire: Ah, Henry. The name of a strong leader.

James: You're not going to raise an egg general, are you?

Wendy: I don't think so...

LPM: Oh you should.

Singer: Warising the war!

James: Ok we get it, Judas Priest made a word up way back in 1980, just drop the idea, ok?

Singer: It's plagiarisation?

James: I wouldn't necessarily go that far, but it is annoying.

(A crashing sound is heard).

James: There's no need to smash your guitar up, just maybe try a little harder, that's all...

(A crashing sound is heard).

James: The bassist is getting mad, too?

Guitarist: You're not respecting our creative freedom.

James: Oh God, I'm going to talk to the fish. Conquered any more countries, recently?

LPM: Oh, one or two...

James: Don't talk about it like it's nothing, who have you invaded?

LPM: Australia and Brazil.

James: Australia and Brazil?? Those countries are huge!

LPM: My military tactics are ingenious...

James: Oh they must be, they must be. Le Poisson Militaire, the greatest general who has ever lived and he's a fish as well. Wow. What's your real name by the way?

LPM: Henrique Aubert.

James: Which is why you said Henry is the name of a strong leader?

LPM: Yes!

James: Considering changing the baby's name, Charlie and Wendy? Or do you genuinely want a strong egg overlord?

Wendy: Well, the fish is called Henrique, not Henry...

LPM: There's nothing wrong with world domination, I get you. Your fellow eggs have been eaten, the same thing has happened to my fish friends and family. It toughens you up and turns you into strong leaders.

Charlie: People eat eggs? Rumours. Sick jokes.

James: No, Eternal Stab, don't lick your lips.

Charlie: I'm warning you...

James: I'd listen to the warning guys, Charlie is a very skilled fighter.

Guitarist: Ooh scared...

(A zooming and thudding sound is heard).

Guitarist: He's just flown right into my face!!

(Another thud is heard).

Guitarist: He's done it again!

(And another).

Guitarist: Ow! (Expletive!)

Charlie: You like that??

James: I think it's best if you leave.

Guitarist: I'm going!

(A door opens and closes).

James: Well, well, well, the band has gone. If I had to bet money on who would leave, I'd say it would be Dan...

Dan: And why is that?

James: Because you're a prick.

(A door opens and closes).

James: Oh, he did leave.

LPM: You're going to get more death threats, then?

James: Oh, almost certainly.

Charlie: Am I going to get into trouble?

James: Oh I wouldn't worry about it, the guy will probably make a song out of it. Violatisating the violence or whatever. He's an idiot.

Charlie: Oh good.

James: And on that dramatic note, it's time to wrap things up! Nice party I guess! Bye!