

James: Hello listeners! On today's show we have the famous TV chef Tim Timmyson Timson.

Tim: Thank you for having me.

James: No problem. I should have said 'disgraced' chef Tim...

Tim: I've poisoned many, many dogs.

James: But by accident, at least...

Tim: Thanks man.

James: I have to be honest, I'm surprised anyone listens to you with a name like that.

Tim: What do you mean?

James: Even Tim sounds kinda silly. But Tim Timmyson Timson? It's actually a form of abuse. What was your father called?

Tim: George Cadbury.

James: Where did he get the Timmyson Timson from?

Tim: He smokes a lot of weed.

James: Ohhhhhh... He was high when naming you?

Tim: He was apparently laughing for ages about it. He still laughs to this day. I on the other hand am very sad.

James: I'm so sorry.

Tim: Thanks again.

James: If you want to take the power back, I think your name could actually be very cool with just a slight alteration...

Tim: Go on...

James: Your name is too long to be abbreviated to T 'n' T obviously, but how about T 'n' T 'n' T? That's like TNT but 33% more powerful!

Tim: That sounds cool and all, but...

James: But what?

Tim: Well I'm a chef...

James: It's a cool prison nickname if you do get charged with any crimes...

Tim: What do you mean?

James: T 'n' T 'n' T, the extra explosive chef that's not to be messed with.

Tim: You really think so?

James: Sure, you'll be 33% tougher than any other prisoner.

Tim: Unless there's a prisoner called 'Nuke'...

James: Who calls himself 'Nuke'? That's really stupid.

Tim: Personally I think T 'n' T 'n' T is pretty stupid.

James: No, no, no, not at all. Now a word from my sponsor.

Advert: Timmy's TNT, here. Are you tired of having a weak name like Timmy? Or are you tired of people seeing you as weak for any other reason? Then show 'em who's boss with Timmy's TNT! Want to blow up their car, van or even Lamborghini? Then contact Timmy's TNT. Contacting James Ziegler may be of use, as well.

James: Sound good, Tim?

Tim: The TNT, you mean?

James: Yes!

Tim: Well, I don't know. Couldn't use of explosives exacerbate the situation?

James: What situation?

Tim: Any situation.

James: Could do. Could make it better. Anyway, have a number you'd like to share?

Tim: Yes, I have had one number on my mind for a while now.

James: Go on...

Tim: 9195979893.

James: 9195979893?

Tim: Yes. Is that a problem?

James: It might be when I explain what it means...

Tim: What's it mean, then?

James: It means you're not number one which isn't TOO bad, but it also means you're not 5 star, you're not lucky, you're not prosperous OR free.

Tim: Is that really what it means?

James: Afraid so. It's actually the most depressing number you could have come up with. Most numbers people share have at least something good about them, but not yours.

Tim: Are you sure?

James: Completely. It's not looking good is it?

Tim: I'm depressed now.

Advert 2 (in a French accent): Are you depressed because you're a little weasel called Tim, who keeps getting dogs poisoned? Then take Pierre's Anti-Depressants! They can't change dumbass names, but they can make you feel better about them! Timmy Timmyson Timson, what a moron.

Tim: What the hell was that?

James: That was me! I spoke in a French accent so you wouldn't recognise me. Just a joke.

Tim: Ah, a very funny joke.

James: Thanks.

Tim: Want to hear a joke about you?

James: I'm sorry?

Tim: Here goes: 'My name's James and I think it's for the best if I use TNT for all of life's problems!' It doesn't make you likeable, you know?

James: Sure it does. It makes me edgy! Like a rockstar.

Tim: Here's another joke: My name's James and everyone keeps sacking me.

James: That's edgy, too.

Tim: Would me bombing your car make me edgy?

James: No, it would make you a freak.

Tim: Why?

James: An excellent question and definitely something for you to ponder over during my next ad break.

Advert 3: Want to be cool and edgy like James? Then keep listening to this show! Yes, a show that advertises itself the same time it airs! Ever heard of THAT before? Probably not! Be edgy like James.

Tim: Another ad made by you?

James: Sure was. As you may have guessed, a lot of my thoughts focus on how to be edgy.

(A phone rings)

James: Hello caller?

Caller: You spammed my podcast, and it IS my podcast now, not at all yours, so now I will spam you! Spam, spam, spamspamspam! Good on you Tim for standing up to James! Bomb his stuff, I'll give you my secrets, my tips!

Tim: Tips, you say?

Caller: Yeah, don't bomb his car, bomb his house, he hates that.

Tim: It's interesting you say that, as I've just heard from a TNT company. Buying some explosives sounds like a doddle!

Caller: Oh buy as much as possible. You see...

James: No, I'm definitely cutting him off.

Tim: Why? He was so insightful...

James: There's nothing insightful about someone saying other people don't like bombs.

Tim: But you love bombs.

James: True. Some people don't like bombs other people, such as myself do indeed love bombs. There you go, not insightful.

Tim: But...

James: Look I'm going to cut you off too if you're not careful, you're starting to annoy me. Now's the time for some 80s disco music.

Tim: Oh 80s disco music? Not atonal jazz fusion? Or maybe an Irish jig? Or black metal shoegaze music?

James: It's called 'blackgaze'.

Tim: So it's really 80s disco music, then?

James: Yes, is that a problem?

Tim: I really was hoping for some psychedelic 60s prog.

James: Well you've blown it.

Tim: No, not really. I actually want an a black metal Irish jig. Is THAT a real form of music that bands play?

James: You're thinking of Cruachan...

Tim: God...

James: Anyway, time for some 80s disco! And then maybe some Cruachan as Tim requested...