

Dan: Hello li...

(A phone rings)

Dan: Wow, an eager caller today...

Caller: James, you're super cool. But you'll be even cooler if you list all the crimes you've committed right here, right now...

Dan: I usually dislike comments that are so straight to the point, but that was great.

Caller: Thank you.

James: How would listing crimes make me cool?

Dan: Don't question him James, go with it. If you do, I'll think you're cool too.

James: Really??

Dan: SUPER cool.

James: It's the egg, right?

Caller: That's me!

James: You're not going to trick me into saying something I'll regret?

Caller: No. As I was saying, just tell everyone about all the crimes you've ever committed now and you'll be really, really great.

James: I GUESS that makes sense...

Caller: Of course it does.

James: Would you like to leave the room, Dan?

Dan: Errr... What?

James: Dan, I think it's best you don't hear.

Dan: I'm not going anywhere.

James: Fine. Actually, no. Something about this situation doesn't seem right to me...

Caller: Oh? What could that be?

James: How EXACTLY does me listing crimes make me cool?

Caller: You'll be a rebel without a cause, a real badass. Amazing.

James: Oh, I have a cause...

Caller: And what is that?

James: To destroy Dan, that's not clear?

Ben: Oh God.

Caller: You'll be a rebel with a cause, then. A real badass.

James: I won't like... get arrested?

Caller: Name me one cool person who has ever been arrested.

James: Bjorn Squeeze?

Caller: How do you know Mr. Squeeze?

James: I just met him and his family one day, purely by chance. He really is the most friendly person you ever could imagine.

Caller: He's not cool actually, he's part of an evil criminal gang.

James: That's weird, it really isn't how I remember him at all. Having said that, it was far weirder when I heard he turned into a fish...

Ben: I hear he's a man again now...

James: How?

Ben: Errr... coffee?

James: Coffee??

Ben: That's what people are saying...

James: Well I never cared for the drink.

Ben: Oh God, he's going to talk about insanity again...

James: I WOULD do... but of course that would only make my mental home even more concerned about me.

Ben: And you're in hiding?

James: Yes.

Ben: In hiding in this now world famous London radio station?

James: Well as you know, when the show is over I run for my life.

Ben: Aren't you wanted by the police as well?

James: Yes, that's why I was so concerned about listing all my crimes.

Ben: I really think you should hand yourself in, it will be for the best in the long run.

James: Well, you know these crazy times. People are always getting arrested for not driving fast enough. I'm small time in a weird way.

Ben: Fair point.

James: Yeah. And...

Caller: I'm running out of call time!

James: Whoops, I genuinely forgot about you.

Caller: Say something incriminating!

James: You tried to choke me?

Caller: Something you did, you moron!

James: Be too awesome?

Caller: How is that bad??

James: Too much of anything is bad.

Caller: And how can being too awesome put you in jail??

James: Well I SHOULD be in jail, so...

Caller: Why?? Tell us all!

James: Being too awesome!

Caller: AAAARGH!!!

Dan: He's gone.

James: Oh. Oh no.

Ben: You don't really think you should be in jail for being too awesome do you?

James: As you were saying, these are strange times.

Dan: Are you deluded, or...?

Ben: I have a theory.

Dan: Go on...

Ben: There are rumours a special coffee has been leaked to the public, and one of its side effects is insanity. I heard even being NEAR the coffee beans can drive someone mad, and as James is particularly susceptible to the coffee, I think he's been poisoned...

Dan: What do you think of the theory, James?

James: Na.

Dan: Why not?

James: If I was coffee poisoned I'd have the jitters, wouldn't I? I'd be very anxious. In actuality, after hearing I've made the egg angry I'm in a beautiful mood.

Dan: Oh God.

James: I'm walking on air.

Dan: No you're not, you're sitting down.

James: Yeah? Well watch this...

Dan: Oh yeah, I forgot you can levitate.

James: Good, isn't it?

Ben: Why DO you think you should be in jail for being too awesome, then??

James: Well, it's being TOO awesome, isn't it? I told you.

Ben: Ohhhh yeah. Makes sense.

Dan: Don't humour him, Ben!

Ben: Come on, it's funny.

James: (EXPLETIVE!)

Dan: Is there any reason you've shouted a swear word on this family friendly show?

James: Fred's acid!!

Dan: Go on then, James. Impress Fred's acid company.

James: It's very good!

Dan: What's it used for?

James: Putting in fizzy drinks?

Dan: Wow.

James: What have I done wrong, now?

Dan: You put acid in fizzy drinks?

James: No actually, fizzy drinks have loads of acid in them already.

Dan: So if you were to drink a fizzy drink and you found it to be bland, you'd put Fred's acid in the drink and drink it?

James: Right, that's what acid is used for.

Dan: Have you ever had a fizzy drink that went flat?

James: Sure have.

Dan: And if you had acid available, you'd completely FILL the flat drink with acid?

James: Guess...

Ben: James, one day you're going to die. Soon, in fact.

James: Nooo.

Ben: It's true. That was an UNBELIEVABLY stupid thing to say.

James: Yeah? You tell that to Coca Cola and see what they say to you.

Ben: What??

(A phone rings)

Ben: Oh God.

Caller: Hello, podcast hosts. Whilst I previously praised your passion for acid, it seems James's passion for acid is too strong and therefore inappropriate. It is with great sadness Fred's acid will no longer be sponsoring this show.

Dan: Oh, but James crashing my cars is fine??

Caller: Yeah.

James: No, please!

Caller: James, tell your audience never to drink my acid. Do it now.

James: ... Don't drink Fred's acid.

Caller: Well done.

James: What's it used for then?

Caller: Nope, I'm sorry. I will no longer be working with any of you again. Good day.

James: Good day??

Dan: I'M walking on air at least.

James: No you're not, I am. Oh yeah, I forgot to sit back down.

Dan: Where are you going to get your sponsorship money now then, huh?

James: I really like chocolate...

Dan: Great. Well whilst you're on the run from the law and your mental home, I suggest you stop by a chocolate factory and pester them without drawing attention to yourself in any way.

James: Will do.

Dan: And once again, we're all out of time. Bye listeners. And bye Fred's acid.

James: Buy Fred's acid? They're not sponsoring us anymore...

Dan: ...