

James: Hello, listeners! This will be a special show as it's hosted all the way over in China! Lovely China. Also with me in the studio is a waiter and a chef I got on very well with, along with a paramedic who was wonderful. I also have the scummy Ben and Dan on the phone at all times to discuss legal action against me. Now let's start the show!

Everyone except Ben, Dan and James: Hello.

James: So chefs and such... would you say I was rude, like Ben and Dan claims?

Chef and waiter together: Oh no, no, no, no.

James: And how about abusive?

Waiter: Not at all!

James: You never suspected I could shoot you with a mini gun and dispose of the weapon in a lake with my friend Simon?

(There is silence).

James: Well?

Chef: Well... you kinda have that vibe, I mean...

James: What's that supposed to mean?

Waiter: He means you kept implying that you wanted more and more food repeatedly and when we gave you the food, you looked really angry. We thought that was odd.

James: That was a misunderstanding, you fool!

Waiter: How so?

James: I didn't want the damn food!

Waiter: You didn't want the food, even though you ate every bite and you stayed in the restaurant for almost two hours?

James: I didn't want to hurt your feelings!

Waiter: Even though you demanding so much food cost the foodery a lot of money?

James: Screw your foodery!

Waiter: Did you want to hurt my feelings when you said that?

James: Yes! I mean no! I mean... oh (expletive). Oh just (expletive) you!

Waiter: I'm warning you.

Dan: He does this to me, too.

James: Good!

Paramedic: And when I stomach pumped you, you kept screaming at me...

James: I wasn't screaming at you, I was screaming because I was in so much pain!

Paramedic: You kept shouting 'I hate you! I hate you more than Dan!'

James: Ok, I did do that.

Paramedic: It was particularly hurtful as it's been well documented your hate campaign towards him has gone on for several years.

James: You don't know what missing rare and unusual times does to me! It's not just missing a number, it's missing logic. The beauty of time. The mystery of its passing. Who even knows what time really is? It can't be explained, and you think it's ok if someone takes that wonder away from me?? No! It's all I have!

(There is more silence).

James: Right?

Paramedic: It's just a stupid number...

James: Now I'm warning you.

Paramedic: What did you say?

James: Belittling my way of life? Who do you think you are?

Dan: Don't worry, I heard every word and this show is being recorded.

Ben: It's not looking good is it James?

James: It's looking brilliant, actually. It's made me look thoughtful and assertive.

Dan: I'd say it's making you look like a maniac.

James: Coming from you?? You said you'll bomb my studio!

Dan: I only said that out of anger. You have been constantly provoking me.

James: Would you like me to explain just how important time is?

Dan: God, not this again.

James: Can you imagine a world without time? We'd all be just stuck frozen, doing nothing at all. And you think it's ok to disrespect life itself?

Dan: What in God's name are you going on about?

James: I'm saying, who wants to be frozen? Isn't it clear? I've also noted you have eaten ice cream - also frozen - and I'm calling you a twat as well. I hope THAT'S more clear.

Paramedic: I actually know a bit about physics and time can't just 'freeze'.

James: Yes, but Dan wants it to freeze, he's sick in the head. He bombs my studio and freezes time so the police can never catch him, how selfish is that?

Dan: When have I EVER said that??

James: Just a vibe. According to the chef here, that's a valid argument.

Chef: So you have a problem with everyone on this show now? You've really made enemies with everyone, so soon?

James: I like you...

Chef: And is that you trying to be funny, or?

James: Or what?

Chef: Mental?

James: Neither, it was supposed to be friendly. As we're friends, would you like to tell the British police that it's Ben and Dan who are in the wrong?

Chef: You don't have a good case, I'm afraid.

James: Because everything is being recorded?

Chef: Well, yeah...

James: In a way, I'd like to freeze time so I'd never get into trouble. Then again, that's that kind of thing Dan would do, so I'm not going to.

Dan: James, I want to be as clear as possible: I have never even THOUGHT about freezing time. You made that up. You've also made the ice cream story up as you know I'm diabetic.

James: Yes, yes, you're right. You know how I know?

Dan: How?

James: Because you could never make anything up, you're not creative enough.

Dan: I can make things up if I wanted to...

James: Go on then.

Dan: $1 + 1 = 3$.

James: Ha! See how easy that was for you! How easy it was for you to lie! What else have you been lying about??

Dan: Have you just trapped me?

James: I have indeed, you've made up crazy allegations about me! You're more than capable of that, clearly!

Dan: But all the evidence against you is and has been recorded...

James: That again.

Ben: Do you know what I think you should do, James?

James: What?

Ben: Just take it easy for a week or so. After that you should be thinking clearly...

James: Is this your way of tricking me into going to more restaurants?

(There is silence).

James: I'll take that as a yes, then.

Waiter: You are welcome there, you just can't freak everyone out, that's all.

James: Then I'm not interested. Sorry.

Dan: What's an ideal holiday for you, then?

James: Clocks everywhere, all showing the right time. Bang on time.

Ben: You want to visit a clock shop?

James: Right.

Ben: Why don't you, then?

James: My doctor said it could trigger a manic episode...

Ben: I see.

James: Yes, very painful. And we're all out of time, lovely time, so bye, everyone!