

You may know of the OCEAN personality test that measures openness to experience, conscientiousness, extraversion, agreeableness and neuroticism. However, the test I took wasn't very good and I got the highest neuroticism score possible. Something I don't agree with. So here's MY version of the test, that has been vastly improved. Remember there are no right or wrong answers, just different ones. Let's go!

Openness to experience (Are you practical or creative?)

1. How creative are you?

A. I'm not creative at all, but nothing escapes my attention. Consequently I make a bangin' driver. (1 point)

B. I have written a novel, but it has an exceptionally weird layout, so no one will be interested in it. Dammit. (2 points)

C. I'm so creative I constantly hear voices in my head, even when I tell them to go away! :D (3 points)

2. What describes you best?

A. I'm super sensible. I'm so sensible I'm the kind of person who can go camping, erect a tent AND start a fire. BY MYSELF. (1 point)

B. I can do my taxes AND imagine myself doing taxes! (2 points)

C. I can't erect a tent, but I sure can imagine myself doing so, as I fly over the thing like Superman. Bangin'. I can imagine myself doing taxes too, but not in reality. (3 points)

3. Are you a big book reader?

A. Nope, but I am good at maths. I can work out what 7 times 9 is in just a few seconds. (1 point)

B. Not really, which explains why my own books are so weird. (2 points)

C. I'm a huge reader. But I don't know what 2 plus 3 is. (3 points)

4. Do you like music?

A. No. But 7 times 9? It's 63, right? (1 point)

B. I've written my own music and sing, too. But I just keep going 'ooooooooo' over and over again. (2 points)

C. I love music and can even sweep pick on guitar, but I can't tie my own shoes. (3 points)

Score meanings:
