

BEN: Hello, it's Ben, here. On today's podcast with Dan and James, we will be talking about a wide variety of topics, such as...

DAN (Interrupting): How about we talk about James crashing into my car?

JAMES: Sorry, Dan.

DAN: Oh thanks. Is that all I get? Sorry?

JAMES: What more do you want?

DAN: I want to crash into your car, but that's illegal, as is crashing into you.

JAMES: Would you like to crash a bike into my bike?

BEN: Let's be reasonable, guys...

DAN: Don't defend that moron, Ben.

JAMES: Dan, do I need to explain myself again? I was distracted by a man who was swearing at you. I was sticking up for you.

DAN: I didn't see him.

JAMES: He ran off because he was scared.

DAN: And why was it you didn't tell that to the police? Tell us all!

JAMES: Because I was scared of the wrong man going to jail.

DAN: Would you like to describe him?

JAMES: Average height, average weight, no distinctive features, just an ordinary guy.

DAN: You made him up, didn't you?

BEN: Let's be fair, there are many people out there who simply blend in. I think that's what James was saying.

DAN: Why would a man swearing at me blend in??

JAMES: Because everyone want to swear at... no wait...

DAN: Screw you, James.

BEN: Anyway, today's topic!

DAN: This is today's topic.

BEN: How about we talk about Lego and other toys as planned? Let's keep things light - remember our audience.

DAN: Children need to be wise to twats like James so they can spot them and avoid them. An average man out there could get in trouble because of him.

JAMES: Average in appearance only. Only a complete madman would want to swear at you. That's what I meant to say, before...

DAN: Can you stop smiling at me, James? It's creepy.

BEN: Anyway, Lego!

JAMES: Lego...

DAN: No, not Lego. Not until I get my money to fix my beloved vehicle!

JAMES: Let's just try to get money through making a damn good podcast...

BEN: Actually we're starting to get some of highest ratings. Would you like to go back to arguing with Dan?

JAMES: You're being annoying, Dan.

BEN: Great stuff.

DAN: That's great? How about I ram your car?

BEN: No, you can't do that, but you can ram James' car.

JAMES: How about you ram a stranger's car, if you really need to get it out of your system?

DAN: BECAUSE IT'S ILLEGAL!

BEN: There's no need to shout...

DAN: YOU'RE TELLING TO COMMIT SERIOUS ACTS OF VANDALISM AND THERE'S NO NEED TO SHOUT??

JAMES: You could say it was by accident, like me.

DAN: Ok, Ok. I'm calm. So you want me to lie to police after smashing something up?

JAMES: Would you like some tips?

BEN: I think it's best we change subjects, ASAP. This really is inappropriate, now.

JAMES: So... Lego!

DAN: Ahem. What's everyone's favourite Lego spaceship design?

BEN: I like the Star Wars versions.

JAMES: How are the ratings, now?

BEN: Not bad. Actually, I suppose it wouldn't hurt if maybe Dan punched you in face a bit. Hard enough for it to make a sound... No wait, that's too far. How about some very mild insults. Keep it light.

DAN: Poo head.

BEN: That's the kind of thing we want.

DAN: Bum face. Wazzock.

JAMES: Your car looks like crap.

DAN: I'm sorry, what was that?

JAMES: It looks like a scrunched up piece of paper.

DAN: Yeah, well so does yours.

JAMES: That doesn't matter though. I've been planing to get a brand new car for a while. You haven't, that's the difference.

DAN: Do you know how rare my car was?

JAMES: Ha. Powned.

BEN: James, that was too far. You need to apologise.

JAMES: Sorry, Ben.

BEN: I meant to Dan.

JAMES: I know.

DAN: Well?

JAMES: Sorry, Dan.

DAN: Do you know how much the repairs will cost?

JAMES: No...

DAN: £2,000.

JAMES: What, exactly 2,000?

DAN: Yes.

JAMES: Nice number. Add a couple of pounds and you get a palindrome. Anyway, about Lego...

DAN: About Lego? Are you being serious right now? You said the coldest thing in the world and you think that's fine?

BEN: Let him talk.

JAMES: Ever trod on a one of those bricks? Talk about pain. Worst pain ever, and I once broke my spine.

BEN: Really? You must have made an amazing recovery...

JAMES: Yip.

BEN: How did you break your back?

JAMES: I sneezed too hard.

DAN: Lies! Lies! He keeps lying all the time!

BEN: Yes, I agree with you. You better watch what you say, you two, now that I think of it. We're definitely going to go viral.

JAMES: Epic.

DAN: No it's not epic.

JAMES: Why not?

DAN: You're an idiot!

JAMES: If I'm so stupid, how come I'm doing one of England's most popular podcasts?

DAN: Because...

BEN (interrupting): Don't tell him...

DAN: Because...

BEN: Because no one ever knows what you're going to do next. That's all.

DAN: In other words, you're a maniac. You're the Ozzy Osbourne of podcasts. People like listening to freaks. It's morbid curiosity.

JAMES: I don't know what to say.

DAN: Good. That's how we all feel. Deep down, we want you to go. Really.

JAMES: Sad face...

BEN: He didn't mean that, James. We all love hearing about exotic animal collection and all that stuff. I understand you own a tiger and an elephant?

JAMES: And a shark.

BEN: You have an aquarium?

JAMES: No, a pond.

DAN: Oh God.

BEN: Anyway, about Lego.

DAN: Actually... What other animals do you own?

JAMES: Well... Actually...

So that's how Dan, Ben and the idiot James found eternal fame/shame. Or shame-fame to coin a new word. They share their thoughts every day and they grow to hate each other more and more, bit by bit. Who knows what they will talk about next! Maybe I'll tell you, in the not so distant future. Or maybe I'll just leave it. Bye!